

JEFF WHALAN
LEARNING GROUP
GROWING EXCEPTIONAL LEADERS

Aurora Andruska, PSM

Aurora Andruska works with organisations to help them improve performance and productivity. She does this through the provision of tailored workshops, coaching/mentoring and consultancy services. Aurora also facilitates Executive Learning Groups as part of the Jeff Whalan Learning Group.

Aurora provides services to a range of Australian Commonwealth and State/Territory Governments, Universities and not-for-profit organisations within Australia and overseas. Her focus is on working with people to assist them achieve their potential, and to have greater satisfaction, empowerment and engagement in what they do.

Aurora spent the last 20 years of her public service career in a range of senior executive roles. Until May 2014 she was the CEO of the Australian Sports Antidoping Authority, leading it through the largest sports doping scandal in Australia's sporting history. Aurora's earlier senior appointments include Deputy CEO of Centrelink and a number of senior roles in the Commonwealth Department of Education.

Aurora's notable achievements include developing and implementing organisational renewal/cultural change strategies to enable organisations to perform at their best. At Centrelink, Aurora established strong collaborative working relationships across the APS that strengthened the organisation's ability to influence the way social security and other policy initiatives were implemented.

Throughout her public service career Aurora supported, mentored and coached many people, assisting them with difficult workplace issues. She has a reputation of creating strong organisations with positive workplace cultures. Aurora now applies her considerable experience in this area to the coaching, facilitation and consulting work she undertakes.

In the 2006 Australia Day Honours list Aurora was awarded the Public Service Medal for outstanding public service in the development and implementation of a new national framework for vocational education and training in Australia.

Aurora is the Chair of the Australian Institute of Sport Ethics Committee. She also co-facilitates Making Wise Choices: Career Direction and Job Satisfaction workshops in partnership with Jeff Whalan Learning Group.

Aurora has a Bachelor of Science and a Graduate Diploma in Computing Studies. She also has qualifications from the Institute of Executive Coaching and Leadership.
